Fickle fortune is becoming constant and true. The giddy goddess of luck has cast her most bewtiching smiles on the Indishown no signs of coquetry. Let her continue to cast favor in the path of the Hoosier ball players and all will be well. Things broke more than well for Indianapolis yesterday, the Hoosiers winning two from Toledo, while Louisville succumbed to the Columbus team at Louisville. The first battle at Washington Park was a go-as-you-please affair for Indianapolis and the visitors were shut out until the ninth inning, when they scored a foregone conclusion that the Hoosiers would also bag the second game, but when Mock took his position on the slab for ing twirled the Hoosiers around his fingers on previous occasions and dropped them to the ground badly crestfallen. Indianapolis secured a lead of one run in the second game and plugged along trying to add to the score, but there was nothing doing for several innings, neither was there any tallying done by the visitors.

While Toledo was at the bat in the eighth inning of the second contest the showing that Louisville had fallen in defeat. The cheering was loud and long and infused new life into the home players, who went after the second game to make it safe. Burns was perched on first, having got there on a wild pitch on a third strike, but Kleinow lined a hard one to Fox, who gathered it in and doubled the runner at first, retiring the side. The brilliant play increased the excitement and some of the fans became hysterical. The Hoosiers thought the one run might not be sufficient to carry them to victory, so | McNeal, rf...... 3 they went after Mock in the last half of the eighth and batted in another brace of tallies and the score resulted 3 to 0 in the

Hoosiers' favor. KILLEN AND KELLUM IN FORM. Killen and Kellum, the "K-K" off-arm twirlers, can assume most of the credit for the double victory. They had a choice assortment of benders and slants that were harder to solve than yellow journal puzzles, and their support was fast and clean, only one error being charged against the Hoos-Jers in the first battle and two in the second. German, a name that is synonymous with a favorite beverage, furnished easy curves in the first game, while Mock did the Hogriever endeavored to persuade Odwell, cf. 0 0 3 Haskell that the bail had been caught on first bound, but the official would not listen and Hogriever used some unkind words that caused the umpire to order him out of the game. Hogriever went to right field and picked up the glove worn by Mc-Neal. It looked like a big sack of meal. but Haskell measured it with his finger tips and said it was not too large. After Hogriever was sent to the bench Woodruff moved over to right field and Kihm went

HOW FIRST WAS WON. There were many exciting incidents during the first game, but the crowd did not warm up to the spirit of the contest, as Toledo did not make it exciting for the Hoosiers. Killen was as steady as the rock of Gibraltar, and it was not until the ninch inning that the visitors found him for more than one hit and in that inning a double and single scored their only run. With two out in the first inning, Turner singled and Grim juggled Graffius's hit, but Gilks flew to Woodruff. Hogriever opened the Indianapolis half by drawing no further damage. After two went out, Kuhns singled and stole second, but Heydon went out on an infield effort. The third opened for Toledo by Killen passing Burns and Kleinow sacrificed, but the next two men were easily retired. Killen desired to start the first trouble and he shipped a single to center, Hogriever sacrificing him to second. Fox's out placed | Lewee, s 0 0 2 5 Killen on third and Coulter drove one to the right field fence for two bases. This was followed by a three-bagger to left by Grim. O'Brien dropped an easy one back of second base, for a scratch two-bagger, scoring Grim. Woodruff fouled to Smith. The sixth was productive of two tallies. Kuhns went out, but Heydon hit to left for two ases, followed by Killen's single. Hoglever placed a fly in right, which "Billy sunce" Coggswell muffed, Heydon scorng. Fox flew out, but Coulter's single tored Kitlen and advanced Hogriever to hird. Hogriever made a dash for the plate, but was tagged. Grim's single in the seventh, O'Brien's sacrifice, singles by godruff and Kuhns and an out gave Indianapolis two. In the eighth, Hogriever | end of the Minneapolis part of the fourth converted his base on balls into a tally

In the ninth Graffius hit for two bases and scored on Gilks's single to center. Gilks was forced and the next two men were

THE SECOND BATTLE. After the first inning of the second game had been played it was easy to see that both Kellum and Mock were in good form. In the second inning Kellum turned a trick seldom seen at a ball game. With two men on bases he struck the side out. With two out in the second half of the inning Kuhns hit to right center for three bases, but Matthews made the third out by flying to left. Toledo was easily disposed of in the third, and in the last half Indianapolis scored one tally and placed the crowd in good humor. Kellum sneaked a bunt to Smith and beat the ball to first. Kihm hit the right field fence for a two-bagger, Kellum going to third. Fox's long fiv to Gliks furnished the necessary inducement to send Kellum home, and Kihm took third. Coulter hit to Turner, and Kihm was caught at the plate. Grim went out from pitcher to first, retiring the side. The pitching of Kellum and Mock during the next few innings was perfect. Indianapolis secured a lonely single in the fifth, but it counted for naught, while Toledo made a hit in the seventh that did one run, the final score resulting 8 to 1 | not develop into a tally. Then came the in favor of Indianapolis. It seemed to be eighth, when a fast double play retired Toledo, and the good news from Louisville infused ginger into the Hoosiers. In the last of the inning, after Fox had been retired, Coulter singled to center. Grim flew out, but Woodruff hit to right and McNeal Toledo there was some foreboding of trou- let the ball get away from him, Coulter ble, for Mock enjoys the reputation of hav- scoring and Woodruff making second. RACE IS CLOSE.

Much Depends on the Coming Louisville Series This Week.

Think of the possibilities of to-day and to-morrow and also of Tuesday and Wednesday! It is possible for the Indianapolis team to be leading the American Association by to-morrow night, but for this to occur the Columbus team will have to win again at Louisville to-day and Indianapolis will have to win both the morning and afternoon games from Louisville at Washington Park to-morrow. The race is getting closer and more exciting. The Hoosiers won two games yesterday, while Louisville lost one, and Indianapolis is now only two games, or seventeen points, be-hind the leaders. If Louisville should win to-day it will require three victories on the part of Indianapolis to place the Hoosiers in the lead. Everything has led up to the coming Louisville series in Indianapolis beginning to-morrow morning and this series will be the last games of the season in this city. Much depends on the outcome of these games and the fans are at fever heat. With good weather to-morrow all records for attendance in this city will be easily broken. The largest morning crowd in the history of baseball in Indianapolis will be at the park to-morrow morning, and it is doubtful if the park will hold the people who desire to see the afternoon contest. The morning game will be called at 10:15 and Williams will be on the slab for Indianapolis. The afternoon game will be called at 3:30 and probably Sutthoff, if he is in the best of condition will do the twirling for the Hoosiers. There will be more rooting at these games than was ever heard before in one day in this city. Secretary Ruschaupt has arranged to place 1,000 chairs in front of the rode him to victory. August Belmont's stand and near the bleachers to accommodate part of the overflow. The Hoosiers are determined to take a majority of the four games and will fight hard to make a clean record from the Colonels. The street-car company has promised ample service and cars will be run to the park early in the morning and beginning or enthusiasm more unbounded. Fifty at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. LORD OF THE VALE SECOND AND KEENE'S DAZZLING THIRD.

Greatest Race of the Year Witnessed by Fifty Thousand People-Results at Other Tracks.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 .- Savable, sired by Salvator, the most sensational race horse the American turf has ever seen, won the rich Futurity at Sheepshead Bay to-day. John A. Drake, a Western millionaire, owns him. His trainer, Enoch Wishard, is from the West, and Lyne, a Western jockey, Hastings colt, Lord of the Vale, was second, only an eyelash behind, while Daztives, finished third. The time was 1:14, better than the Futurity record over the lower than the best full six furlong twoyear-old record down the chute.
